1. That Yarra City Council:

  - (ii) providing critical health and social support interventions for issues like dental, housing, family violence and drug rehabilitation; and
  - (iii) servicing those most at risk of harm,as evidenced in the Hamilton Report, the Burney Institute Study and the recent article in the Alcohol and Drug Review;
- (b) reaffirms Yarra Council's support for the ongoing trial of this facility in North Richmond;
- (c) acknowledges the work of the Chief Executive Officer of NRCH, Patricia Collocott, Medical Director of the MSIR, Dr Nico Clark, and the committed frontline staff and local supporters in driving the success of the first three years of the trial; and
- (d) acknowledges that there are important community concerns regarding amenity and safety, and commits to continue to work within Council's remit to address these matters in collaboration with other parties, and to work closely with the State Government to support positive outcomes in North Richmond.

BACKGROUND

A Burnet Institute study published on 11 June 2021 shows that the North Richmond Medically Supervised Injecting Room (MSIR) is "fulfilling its brief and playing a constructive role by attracting people who are most at risk from harm relating to their injecting drug use, and most in need of the service," including:

- (a) people experiencing homelessness and/or unemployment;
- (b) people who've experienced non-fatal overdoses and people at heightened risk of overdose;
- (c) young people, linking them with treatment, education and support early on in their injecting experience;
- (d) people who identify as Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander; and
- (e) people who live locally.

The research also points to positive impacts on the amenity of the local area through a reduction in public injecting.

This research bolsters the findings of the Hamilton Report released on 5 June 2020, which reviewed the first two years of the trial, and concluded that the MSIR had successfully saved lives and changed lives for people struggling with drug addiction.

Further, a recent article published in the Alcohol and Drug Review on 6 April 2021, described the success of the MSIR's opioid replacement therapy program offered to clients in 2019 and 2020. There are now more than 200 clients seeking this life-changing treatment at the MSIR.

Refugee Week 2021

Over the past eight years, successive Australian governments have enacted harmful policies against people seeking asylum, including the indefinite detention of many who arrived by boat after 19 July 2013. We are asking you, Yarra Council to sign this joint statement with Moreland, Hume, Darebin, Whittlesea, and Banyule to declare support for refugees dumped in Victoria by the federal government without appropriate supports and demand the following measures:

- the Federal Government free all women, men and children from any form of detention, and quickly resettles them into our community, so they can be safe and have a permanent housing in which to rebuild their lives;
- a clear pathway to permanent resettlement solution that includes appropriate funding and supports for anyone who arrived by sea after 2013;
- give the 1,010 people who have no durable solution, and the 425 who have a possible durable solution a home that supports the ability to apply for employment, access education and contribute to society.

20-26 June 2021

This statement reflects that your council is committed to providing support to refugee and asylum seekers living in their communities in ways such as:

- ongoing advocacy in a way that amplifies asylum seeker voices.
- Housing, employment opportunities and access to council services

While asylum seekers and refugees are in Australian territory (or otherwise engage Australia's jurisdiction), the Australian Government has obligations under various international treaties to ensure that their human rights are respected and protected.

These treaties include the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR), the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (ICESCR), the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (CAT) and the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC). These rights include the right not to be arbitrarily detained.

As a party to the Refugee Convention, Australia has agreed to ensure that asylum seekers who meet the definition of a refugee are not sent back to a country where their life or freedom would be threatened. This is known as the principle of non-refoulement.

Australia also has obligations not to return people who face a real risk of violation of certain human rights under the ICCPR, the CAT and the CRC, and not to send people to third countries where they would face a real risk of violation of their human rights under these instruments. These obligations also apply to people who have not been found to be refugees.

There are still 260 people held against their will in Papua New Guinea and Nauru.

Over 1000 women, men and children have been transferred to Australia for critical medical treatment and now live in 'transitory' visa limbo.

Over 100 of those people are held in locked immigration detention centres and so-called 'alternative places of detention', such as the Park Hotel and Kangaroo Point hotel prisons. Tragically, 13 people have died in these centres.

Countless Parliamentary and Departmental inquiries, UN investigations, reports by the Australian Human Rights Commission, and numerous whistle-blowers, including the government's own doctors have repeatedly told us the same story of systematic abuse, violence and medical neglect of people held in detention facilities.

Conclusion

The meeting concluded at 10.34pm.
